SAWYER HAS NOT REVEALED CHOICE

Administration Is Uneasy
Over FDR's Visit to Marietta

(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS, June 23.—Gov. Martin L. Davey—if he wins a third term nomination—favors John F. Nolan of Steubenville to succeed Francis W. Poulson of Cleveland as chairman of the state Democratic committee, it was learned today from authoritative sources.

Davey is opposed for the gubernatorial nomination by Charles Sawyer of Cincinnati. Sawyer has not indicated his choice of a party manager should he be named the Democratic standard-bearer, although it might be Hugh L. Nichols of Batavia, who is directing his campaign. Nichols formerly was Ohio chief justice.

Returns To Law
Poulson has announced that he would retire to return to his law practice following the Aug. 9 primary. He became the Democratic chieftain after piloting Davey into the executive position in 1935.

Nolan and the Davey administration have been on friendly terms and recently the Jefferson county political leader figured in the senate investigation of state department.

The inquiry disclosed that Nolan was a stockholder in Shaw Transport, Inc., which held a contract to haul state liquor, although it had no trucks. The contract was subtle, but Nolan and other officers of the firm contended that was an accepted business practice.

Six years ago Nolan was a principal figure in a party controversy over the chairmanship, being favored by former Gov. George White, but was opposed by U. S. Senator Robert J. Bulkley. Bulkley's candidate, Dr. Carl Watson of Findlay, won the position.

White is opposing Bulkley for re-nomination.

Who'll Be Mentioned?
Whether Davey, Sawyer, Bulkley or White will be mentioned favorably by President Roosevelt on his visit to Marietta July 8 was causing much concern in Democratic circles.

The Ohioan, Democratic paper controlled by the Davey administration, said editorially:

"Ohio will not ask or expect an honored guest to interfere in a 'family squabble.' Such maneuvering would be discourteous and embarrassing to all."

The paper appealed to the President to allow the Democrats to settle their differences in a "homey" way.

President Roosevelt has been definitely friendly to Sawyer, Ohio Democratic national committeeman, while Davey—continuing to assert his loyalty to the national administration—frequently has been at odds with New Deal officials.

DELAY PLANS FOR LOUIS-BAER BOUT

Chancellor Adolf Hitler's
Aid Talks To Max
From Germany

(By Associated Press)
NEW YORK, June 23.—From a cot in Polyclinic hospital Max Schmeling could testify today to the power in Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis' fists.

Knocked out in two minutes and four seconds of the first round of his 15-round title match with Louis in the Yankee stadium last night, Schmeling was under observation at the hospital for a severe back injury suffered in the opening minute of fighting when Louis landed a smashing right above the kidney.

Physician Describes Injury
After a thorough examination, Dr. Robert Brennan, professor of surgery at the Polyclinic, confirmed an earlier diagnosis that Max had suffered a fracture of the transverse process. This was described as fractures of projections from vertebrae on the right side of the back just below the kidney.

In a formal statement, Dr. Brennan said:

"Mr. Schmeling has suffered fractures of the transverse processes of the third and fourth lumbar vertebrae with a hemorrhage of the lumbar muscles. Prognosis is favorable."

It was the first smashing right hand body punch Louis landed that really settled the fight. The German screamed with pain when it landed and was an easy mark for Louis' sharp-shooting thereafter. The Negro champion floored Max three times before the fight was halted, shortest heavyweight title match in history.

The German was occupying a private room in the hospital but was held incommunicado to all but his doctor, nurses and his managerial staff.

Delays Louis-Baer Plans

Meanwhile Promoter Mike Jacobs delayed his plans for having Louis sign to defend the championship again in September against Max Baer, former title-holder. Mike first wants to get Baer under a long-term contract in order to keep his hold on the leading heavyweight.

Under original plans, Louis and Baer were to have signed at a New York State Athletic commission meeting today. This meeting has been called off.

Joe Jacobs, Schmeling's American representative, said that one of Chancellor Adolf Hitler's aides had called Max from Germany, asked him about his condition and told him "not to worry."

There had been considerable advance speculation as to just what attitude official Germany would adopt in the event Schmeling was beaten by a Negro.

Although Joe Jacobs intimated his belief that the punch that crippled Schmeling was a foul blow, there was little support for that contention from competent observers.

EFFORTS MADE TO HALT WARS

New Offensives Planned
In Spanish and Oriental Battles

(By Associated Press)
There were vague reports today of new efforts to end the Spanish and Oriental wars.

The conflict in China will be a year old July 17, and Japan, noting the slow progress of her offensive against the Chinese provisional capital at Hankow, today announced a new retrenchment and industrial control program to help the army.

The Spanish insurgents, who on July 18 will have fought for two years against the Madrid-Barcelona government, made scant gains in their drive against the Mediterranean seaport of Valencia and were believed preparing to abandon it for the moment and try again to take Barcelona.

The Oriental talk of peace sprang from a German transoceanic news agency report quoting the Chinese foreign minister, Wang Chung-Hui, on the "usefulness of mediation by a third party," since the warring nations "desire to terminate hostilities but neither is willing to take the initiative for reasons of prestige."

The possibility of a Spanish truce centers about British efforts to get all foreign fighters out of Spain and thereby hasten the coming into effect of Britain's friendship pact with Italy, which has soldiers fighting with the insurgent army.

The new Japanese retrenchment program restricts use of metals, chemicals, gasoline and other war materials; effects control of commodity prices to prevent wartime inflation; provides for a national thrift program and greater use of synthetic materials; restricts imports other than for war materials and for exportable manufactures, for which restrictions are relaxed.

Heavy rains interfered with hostilities along the Yangtze, with Japanese warships still 200 miles from Hankow and the nearest army column 100 miles away.

The insurgents in Spain broke through government lines to the south bank of the Seco river after capturing the village of Onda, but still were 35 miles north of Valencia.

New troop concentrations were being moved to the north, where insurgents were believed preparing the new drive toward Barcelona, which they regard as their "key to victory" and which they were unable to capture in a full force offensive last spring.

Henry Boehm is president of the Sebring league.

Parents Are Asked

An appeal to parents to warn their children that the shooting of fireworks in the city is prohibited, was made today by Police Chief Ralph Stoffer.

He explained he would rather have the parents instruct their own children than to have the police make arrests for violation of the ordinance which bans the sale and exploding of fireworks within the city.

"Fire crackers are too dangerous for children to play with," he added.

NEEDED: SOME JESSE OWENSES

The Olympians are hard at it again, dodging one another's thunderbolts as they prepare for their twelfth rally in modern times—in Tokyo in 1940.

Tokyo is, of course, the rub, for the same reason that Berlin was the rub in 1936. Tokyo and Berlin happen to be capitals of countries not famous in these days of strife for fair play.

According to the Olympic ideal, sports should not be affected by anything but the bonds of understanding among sportsmen. According to the bitter reality of politics, however, this is impossible. The Nazis used the Olympic games for their own purposes; the sportsmen just worked there. The Japanese would do likewise, not to be deliberately hurtful to the Olympic ideal, but because it's only natural for a person or a nation under criticism to put the best foot forward.

The United States must decide whether to participate in the games in 1940, or to snub them. The argument will be a fierce one, but before it gets too hot can anyone think of a better way to advertise the advantages of free government and individualism than to send another Jesse Owens to Tokyo in 1940, provided another sprinter and jumper as good as he was in 1936 can be found?

If there's no winning material on hand two years hence, that will be time enough to refuse to go to Tokyo—and reason enough, too, without getting more confused than ever about the international clash of ideologies, or whatever it is that's making the world break out in fever blisters.

HOW TO WIN A PRIZE

A more pleasant pastime than signing petitions to do away with taxes would be hard to imagine. But before signing a petition to do away with the Ohio sales tax, there's one question for which every signer should have an answer ready.

How does he propose to replace the revenue which would be lost if the sales tax were abolished? If the best answer he can think of is "We'll cross that bridge when we come to it," he has no business signing the petition. The sales tax, itself, was created to replace revenue lost when a 10-mill limit was placed on property taxation.

Sales tax revenue, which includes the income from taxes on cigarettes, beer and wine, and gasoline, furnishes money for schools, public relief, street repairs and many other functions of government. Sales taxation is not popular, but who can name a tax which is popular, except among those who don't have to pay it directly?

The first man who can go to the state tax commission with a can't-fail plan for abolishing the sales tax and replacing it with a tax which will be (1) popular and (2) productive will be entitled to a gold replica of the seal of Ohio, with the rising sun represented by a diamond as big as an apple. The commission has been waiting a long time for a fellow who can do it.

FIND THE AX

As a change from predictions the Spanish war is going to be ended by another big push which will topple the stubborn loyalists, it now is predicted the end will come about through a truce engineered by Great Britain.

In crime, the axiom is "Look for the woman." In diplomacy, it's "Look for the ax." With full allowance for appearances which may be deceiving, the ax in this case probably is the British-Italian pact, which cannot go into effect until Italy has withdrawn its troops from Spain. It is that ax which the British now are grinding with all their might.

Great Britain and Italy both want the pact to go into effect. Therefore, if Great Britain can devise a face-saving way for Italy to withdraw its troops from Spain, both governments will be pleased. If, on top of that, the truce can be handled in such a way as to favor the insurgents as against the loyalists, without being too obvious about it, they will be more

SENATE APPROVES BUILDING PROGRAM

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS, June 23.—After squelched before because of opposition to the Davey administration, a $13,000,000 state institutional building program carried senate approval today and went to the house.

A long range plan designed to enable the state to participate in federal construction expenditures, the measure would create a three-member building authority with power to issue bonds totaling $7,500,000.

U. S. To Aid

The federal government is expected to provide the additional funds and the authority's bonds would be retired from "rentals" paid by state departments using the buildings.

Creation of a state authority was necessary because the state itself virtually is barred from issuing bonds in the amounts needed.

Before the bill passed the senate yesterday, 28 to 0, the finance committee had clipped from its provisions which some senators contended, gave too broad a grant of authority to Gov. Martin L. Davey. The program contemplates construction of new hospitals and other buildings for welfare department institutions, renovation and rehabilitation of existing structures and a new state reformatory on land of the London prison farm.

A law providing nearly $2,000,000 worth of new constructions at Dayton, Cleveland, Massillon and Cincinnati mental hospitals was enacted earlier in the special session.

than pleased, because then the red devil would be scotched without any further international complications. Until further information is forthcoming, it's a reasonable assumption that this is exactly what's in the wind.

THE STARS SAY:

For Friday, June 24

A particularly lively and progressive state of affairs is forecast from the auspicious rule of major planets. There is promise of a sudden spurt to many lagging matters, with promise of fulfilled ambitions and a stability of the fortunes. Sudden changes, travel, new contacts and friends may bring advantages.

If This Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a year of excellent opportunity for building their fortunes and stabilizing their affairs, with increase of possessions. Secret understandings may be advisable. Change and travel may prove profitable.

A child born on this day may be of marked versatility and ingenuity, with a spirit of adventure and exalted ambitions which may take it far in the public eye or above its birth station.

VACATIONS WITH BABIES

FREQUENTLY I am asked by parents whether it is safe to take an infant to the seashore or the mountains for the summer months. Others ask whether long train rides or a automobile trip are permissible for the child.

These are difficult questions to answer briefly because there are many different factors to consider. No general rule can be laid down, since each case must be considered on the merits.

All baby specialists agree that up to the age of 18 months the infant is safest in its own home. The child is accustomed to the house environment where a certain daily routine has been established. There is no uncertainty as to the quality of the food and milk, especially the latter.

Water Different
As a rule, summer resorts do not have the best of facilities for the infant. The youngster will come in contact with older children and strange adults. The mother may have difficulty in maintaining the familiar home cleanliness. Also there may be lacking dependable refrigeration for the preparation of the baby's formula.

Not only is the food different, but the water is different in its taste and reactions. The child is very likely to suffer ill effects. Great pains should be taken to boil the water and then cool it for drinking.

Perhaps the greatest objection to vacationing for the infant is the change of milk. It is difficult to know how safe are the water and milk at a summer resort. They may be safe enough for the adult but may cause digestive disturbances in the infant. Of course, if pasteurized milk is available, and all the simple rules of hygiene and sanitation are enforced, the child will be protected against such upsets.

Use Prepared Milks
It is a good plan when traveling to use powdered or prepared milks. These can be used in preparing the feedings until permanent arrangements are made. When this is to be the plan, the infant should be adjusted to the new formula before the trip is begun. A gradual change in the feeding program is desirable. If fluid milk is to be used, it is best to carry it cold and warm it as used.

Of course, the infant should receive the vaccination against smallpox. This may be given as early as the sixth month. This is particularly important if you contemplate traveling into the rural sections.

The older child should be inoculated against diphtheria. These simple precautions should never be overlooked. Typhoid inoculation, too, should be given if you are planning to travel in sections where this disease is prevalent. It is advised both for child and the adult members of the party.

University Finance
Plea Cut In Half

COLUMBUS, June 23.—The state controlling board today cut in half a request of Bowling Green State university for $1,000 additional funds to carry on an expanded extension program until next January.

Sen. William R. Foss (D, Mercer), chairman of the senate finance committee and member of the board, suggested the extension activities of state universities, particularly Bowling Green and Kent, should be curbed.

Foss said Bowling Green university had carried its extension work into Bluffton, the seat of Bluffton college, and that he was opposed to state institutions infringing on the territory of privately endowed or municipal colleges and universities.

CHAPTER XIV

Rudd took the policeman's shoulder and Gregory his feet. Then, followed by the woman, they carried him into the house.

"Straight down the passage," she ordered and then, addressing Gregory, she brought up the rear. "If you try and trick me I'll put a bullet in your back. Straight on now and the third door on your right."

"Thank you, mother," said Gregory amiably, "but I'd rather have a nice cup of warm tea in my tummy. When you're tired of holding that thing I'll hold it for you and you shall make me one."

They proceeded along a stone flagged passage, evidently the servants' quarters, but when Rudd turned his way backwards through the third door on the right Gregory saw that it was a heavy balise-covered affair which led to the main part of the house. As Gregory passed through the swinging door the woman jammed the muzzle of her pistol firmly in the small of his back and switched on the lights.

They saw that they were in the main hallway of the house, from which a broad staircase led to the floors above. There was a long settee in one corner and, on a small table some way from it, stood a telephone.

"Put him on the couch," said the woman, making straight for the instrument.

"Please," Gregory begged. "The police won't thank you for lugging them out at this hour in the morning to arrest one of their own people. Hang on until this chap comes round. I swear to you on my honor that he is a policeman. He'll be able to tell you so himself in a minute."

The policeman's eyes flickered open and Rudd pulled him up into a sitting position on the settee. He groaned again and for a moment put his head between his hands. Then he lifted it painfully and stared about him.

"Better now?" asked Gregory. "I'm terribly sorry I knocked you out. I was under the impression that you were someone else, but you remember me, don't you? We met a few nights ago at Trouville."

"Yes—yes, of course, I remember now; you got me out of a nasty mess, didn't you? I didn't know it was you either when I caught you trying to break into this place, but I'm afraid I'll have to ask you for an explanation."

"Plenty of time for that," said Gregory easily. "I think we're working on the same thing, but from different angles. We've landed ourselves in a new mess since you passed out though. This lady here with the heavy armaments, I don't yet know her name."

"Mrs. Bird," the woman supplied noncommittally.

"Well, Mrs. Bird seems to think that all three of us are up to no good here and she's just about to phone for the local coppers. I think it would be a good thing for all of us if you can persuade her not to."

The policeman stood up a little groggily. "Mrs. Bird," he said, "my name's Inspector Wells, and I'm down here on special work for Scotland Yard. Here is my card of authority."

She shook her head stubbornly. "I may be right and I may be wrong, but what were you doing in our grounds I'd like to know? As for inconveniencing the local police, what do we pay rates for? You stay where you are young man and don't you move a muscle while I telephone."

A stir creaked above them and they all glanced up. Unheard by any of them a young girl had appeared on the landing and was now descending the broad straight stairway. She was barefooted and clad in her nightdress. Two long braids of golden hair coiled about her head made a halo gleaming in the light. Her blue eyes were wide and staring. Instantly they realized that she was walking in her sleep.

"Don't wake her," whispered Mrs. Bird. "Not a sound, please—or the poor lamb may get the shock of her life."

In two silent strides Gregory was beside the older woman. His left hand closed over her right and in a single sharp twist he forced the sleeper from between her fingers.

Gregory could have killed. Gregory would have fallen dead upon the spot. Mrs. Bird, however, brushed passed him without a word and hurried on tiptoe to the foot of the wide staircase.

The girl was now halfway down the flight. She was quite young, creamy cheeks were slightly flushed in sleep. Above her short straight nose and white forehead the great oriel of plaited hair formed a shimmering golden crown. There was something ethereal and fairylike about her as she moved slowly down toward them which made it seem hardly possible that she was warm flesh and blood. The young Inspector thought that in all his days he had never seen anything quite so lovely.

Mrs. Bird mounted a few stairs and took the girl very gently by the arm. With hardly a pause she turned in her tracks and began to walk up the stairs again, led now by the elder woman.

"Wells," said Gregory in a sharp whisper, "go up with them. There may be another telephone upstairs."

Wells nodded and with one hand on the banister rail began to tiptoe upstairs after the two women.

"Weren't she a pretty kid?" murmured Rudd. "Almost like a fairy off a Christmas tree, only wanted a wand and a couple of wings."

Gregory shrugged. "Pretty enough, but quite brainless I should think. Anyhow, it was a bit of luck for us she turned up when she did or we would have had to waste more time arguing with the old woman."

When Mrs. Bird and the Inspector came down the stairs again Gregory asked her sharply:

"What's the name of this place?"

"Suey Park, Birchington."

"Good, now before we go on any further I want you to satisfy yourself that our friend here really is a police inspector. The quickest way is for you to get on the telephone to Scotland Yard."

"That sounds sense," she said, a little subdued, now that she no longer had the whip hand over them.

"Not another word, please," Gregory protested. "You were perfectly right to hold us up and you did it darn well into the bargain, but now, joking apart, would it be troubling you too much if we asked you to make us a cup of tea? We've been up all night and I'm sure the others could do with one too."

"Certainly, sir, of course I will. Maybe you could do with a bite to eat as well. What about some nice scrambled eggs for an early breakfast?"

"That'd be splendid and really kind of you, Rudd, you go along with Mrs. Bird and give her a hand. I want a word with the Inspector."

As they left the hall Gregory moved over to Wells, who had sat down on the settee again.

"Now let's try and get things straightened out a bit," he said. "I'm awfully sorry about having banged you over the head but it would never have happened if it hadn't been for the stupidity of your eighteen or nineteen perhaps, slim as a boy, with only faintly rounded breasts and hips. Her face was small and delicately chiselled; her own people in refusing to allow us to work together."

"Don't worry about the knock you gave me," Wells' freckled face lit up with a boyish grin. "You were at the Yard this morning, weren't you? I know what you told them, and that you're acting on behalf of Sir Pellinore Gwaine-Cust, but you didn't give away what you're investigating for him."

"Need we fence? I'm trying to get to the bottom of the international smuggling racket."

"Right, Well, I'm after the same thing. The Yard was asked to undertake a special inquiry and they've given me a chance at it as my first independent investigation. I was put on to this special work about six weeks ago and, so far, I've spent most of my time trying to get a lead from the British end of it; working back from the retailers, who are cutting the prices of their goods, to the wholesaler and so, eventually, to the actual importers of contraband."

"You didn't have much luck, then?"

"Not much to begin with, but the police net's a wide one once it starts to operate. We traced some goods from a dress shop in Birmingham to a wholesale house in Regent Street and I put the chap who runs it through his paces about a week ago. Of course, he swore he had no knowledge there was anything fishy about the parcel he'd handled and said that it'd been sold him through a French house, by a woman representative, as bankrupt stock. I managed to ratle him pretty badly though by telling him that if he couldn't put me on to the woman who'd sold him the goods I'd have to run him as a dealer in contraband himself. Then I gave him twenty-four hours to think it over."

"Next day," Wells continued, "the dealer gave me a description of the lady you met in Deauville. Then he told me he had met the lady in the lounge of the Carlton because she didn't want to be seen in his offices, and he believed that when she was in London she stayed at the hotel."

"My next move was to the Carlton and the management there gave me every assistance they could. The lady proved to be a Miss Sabine Sentes. We circulated her description through the usual channels and asked for the cooperation of the French police as well. They found her for us in Paris where she has some connection with a genuine silk stocking factory."

Gregory frowned on learning that Sabine was so much more deeply involved than he had supposed, but Wells continued without a pause, making his story as short as he could.

"I flew to Paris with faked credentials as a buyer for a bigish London firm, but had to call at the stocking factory several times before I finally met the woman I was after. Guess they finally figured they'd have to have her vamp me to close the deal I was talking, but not doing much about it. Well, we played each other along. I took her to lunch and we talked for hours. She pretended to like me pretty well, but I knew she didn't mean it, though I tried to seem like I was falling hard for her line."

"Finally, when she was called to the telephone and left her bag at the table I went through it and pinched that telegram. She must have missed it soon after and that was why she invited me to meet her."

that night in Deauville, where she said she had to go on business. I met her all right... you know the rest of the story!" Wells grinned sheepishly.

"Not a very romantic end to a story with such a beautiful heroine!" Gregory laughed.

"Babs" Given Court Order To Restrain Husband's Actions

LONDON, June 23.—A source authorized to speak for the former Barbara Hordor said today she had obtained a court order for possible restraining steps against her husband, the 42-year-old Count Haugwitz-Reventlow, to safeguard herself and the child.

The Danish nobleman was in Paris and there were conflicting reports whether he would come to London today, possibly to shed some light on the mysterious kidnapping and entanglement reports affecting his family.

The action of the American-born heiress to a five-and-ten store fortune was understood to be based on a dispute with Count Haugwitz-Reventlow over custody of their two-year-old son, Lance, who it has been estimated would inherit $20,000,000 from his mother.

A spokesman for the countess said her husband's "recent behavior" caused her to take legal steps for protection.

The countess went to court after adopting unusual safeguard measures at her home in fashionable Regents park. The precautions gave rise to reports of threats to kidnap the boy.

The countess was reported to be planning to make application to have the boy made a ward in chancery, which would require that he be kept in the jurisdiction of the court.

Baron Horder, physician-in-ordinance to the King, was called to the Regent's Park home early this afternoon, leading to belief either the countess or Lance might be ill.

Lord Horder is noted as a diagnostician.

Fat Women Smother in Tight Girdles

Tight girdles and stiff foundation garments actually make many women look fatter. Instead of squeezing your fat, why not have a slim, lovely, youthful figure that needs but little girdle control?

The Marmola is the easy way to get rid of extra fat caused by an internal deficiency. Marmola Prescription Tablets have been sold to the public for more than thirty years. More than twenty million boxes have been distributed during that period.

Marmola is not intended as a cure-all for all ailments. This advertisement is intended only for fat persons who are normal and healthy otherwise and whose fatness is caused by hypo-thyroidism with accompanying subnormal metabolic rates. No other representation is made as to this treatment except under these conditions and according to the dosage as recommended.

We do not make any diagnosis as that is the function of your physician, who must be consulted for that purpose. The complete formula is included in every package. Get Marmola at your drugstore today and send that ugly fat on its way.

Queen Elizabeth's Mother Dies; Family Mourning Decreed

LONDON, June 23.—King George VI decreed only family mourning for Queen Elizabeth's mother, the 76-year-old Countess of Strathmore and Kinghorne, who died early today.

He still had not decided, however, whether to alter plans for a royal visit he and Queen Elizabeth are scheduled to make to Paris next Tuesday.

The funeral will be held June 27 at Glamis castle, the family home in Scotland.

Some sources said the death would not affect the royal arrangements but that the sovereign might go to Paris alone.

It was reliably reported, however, that there was no likelihood of complete cancellation of the visit.

The suggestion was advanced that the king's mother, Queen Mother Mary, might accompany him on the state visit if Queen Elizabeth were unable to go.

The countess, wife of the Earl of Strathmore and Kinghorne, had been gravely ill of heart trouble for some time.

She was born Nine Cavendish-Bentinck, daughter of the late Rev. William Cavendish-Bentinck, and was a direct descendant of the third Duke of Portland.

Despite her high birth, the countess shunned society and court life. Elizabeth is the youngest of her 10 children.

Mahoning To Give Needy Medical Aid

YOUNGSTOWN, June 23.—The Mahoning County Medical society today offered to provide free medical service for all persons, except relief cases, who are unable to pay.

The society's action opens the way for the re-establishment of hospital dispensaries similar to those in operation during the previous depression. The society asked only that Youngstown and Mahoning county provide the space and equipment for the doctors' services.

The medical men's action came after unofficial discussions of criticisms leveled against the profession to the effect that "only the rich and those on relief can get adequate care."

The criticisms started after the clinics were closed in 1932, when the relief organizations began taking over the care of indigents.

Bank Examination
Revisions Planned

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, June 23.—Government financial leaders have attempted to put some of the $2,730-600,000 idle bank funds to work for business recovery by revising bank examination rules.
Settling factional differences, officials of five agencies which govern
every bank in the country agreed to modify examining procedure so as to encourage long-term business loans.

The changes also will permit National banks to resume purchases of bonds of small companies whose securities are not listed on stock exchanges.
The experts agreed today that the major obstacle to business credit expansion was lack of loan demand from eligible businessmen, but one high official termed the agreement "a constructive effort which should help promote credit expansion and recovery."

Commerce Leader
Claims Business
Fears Man-Made

(By Associated Press)
PITTSBURGH, June 23.—Richard C. Patterson, Jr., assistant secretary of commerce, said yesterday the "fears and uncertainties expressed by business executives" concerning future developments in the relationship between government and business "have become artificial barriers in the path of recovery."

In a speech prepared for delivery to the annual convention of the National Association of Retail Credit Men, he declared that the barriers are artificial "because they are largely man-made; because they are frequently emotional rather than logical; because they are based on speculation of what may happen in the future rather than what is happening in the present."

Patterson said there was nothing
"inherently undemocratic" in the use of federal authority to establish rules governing economic liberty.
He referred to the wage and hour bill recently enacted by Congress and said the regulatory measures of the bill "do not regiment business" but "serve as standards to protect the higher plane on which competition may freely operate.
x x x freedom of competition is not eliminated. It is merely confined within limits which many industrial leaders have declared essential if private enterprise is to continue its service to society x x x."

SALEM RIDERS SPANK LEAGUE OPPONENT, 8-3

Fourth - Chukker Scoring Spree Boosts Salem Team to Victory

Scoring in every chukker but the sixth, the Salem Polo club routed Battery C riders of Alliance, 8 to 3, before a large crowd at the Salem field on the North Ellsworth rd. last evening.

The Penn-Ohio Polo league game was played as a benefit for the Presbyterian church building fund. The June committee of the church, headed by Mrs. Charles Tolerton, sponsored the contest.

Pressed by the Alliance riders during the first half, the Salem poloists staged a four-goal scoring spree in the fourth period to take a lead which Alliance never threatened.

The Salem team added another goal in the fifth frame to sew up the victory.

Battery C remained on practically even terms with the Salem quartet in the first half, scoring two goals to the local riders' three. Salem tallied one goal in each of the first three frames, while Alliance scored once in the second frame and once in the third.

Excellent team play between Jim Pidgeon and Ray Moff sparked the fourth-chukker scoring spurge which sent Salem far out in front. Given splendid assistance by Moff, Pidgeon tallied three of the Salem club's four goals in the fourth period. Moff himself accounted for the other tally in this frame.

Pidgeon's three tallies in the fourth gave him high-goal honors for the game. Moff and Brooke (Peter) Votaw each scored twice for the Salem club. Alliance scoring was split between Rodger Reese, Ted Turkle and Captain Gihahl.

The triumph was the Salem team's third in the Penn-Ohio league, which includes, in addition to Salem and Alliance; Akron Bar-K and Cowboys, Old Furnace of Zellenople, Pa., and North Hills and Wexford of Pittsburgh, Pa.

The Salem riders will face North Hills of Pittsburgh in their next game at 3 p. m. Sunday at the local field. It will be the first appearance here of the North Hills club.

MOTORS BEATEN BY WELLSVILLE

Salem Team to Face Colored House of David Club Saturday

Suffering their seventh defeat of the first half of the Columbiana County Baseball league, the Salem Althaus Motors lost to Wellsville, 3 to 2, at Wellsville yesterday.

The Motors pushed over one run in the first inning and one in the second for their scoring. Wellsville tallied twice in the second frame to tie the score and added another run in the third inning to take the lead which eventually brought victory.

Neither team scored in the remaining frames of the seven-inning contest as Pitcher Orrie Snyder for Salem and Pitcher W. Nelson for Wellsville took command of the situation.

Snyder allowed only five hits, although losing the game. Nelson gave up eight safe blows.

The Motors are scheduled to encounter their stiffest opposition of the season Saturday afternoon when they face the Colored House of David club at 3 o'clock at the Lake Placidia diamond. The Salem team will meet Lisbon in its next league game at Centennial park Sunday afternoon.

Louis Says He's "Sho Nuff" Heavyweight Champion Now

Bomber Tells Reporters It Was "Somethin' of a Relief" To Whip Max Schmeling

By DREW MIDDLETON.
NEW YORK, June 23.—A shy Alexander with no more fistic worlds to conquer, Joe Louis, five years and a million dollars away from a factory job, says, "I guess I'm gettin' a little better."

The heavyweight champion of the world, surrounded by reporters, photographers and friends, had one thing to get off his chest in his dressing room.

"Ah'm sho' nuff champeen, now," he said.

Outside in Yankee stadium the vast crowd was shuffling out, still talking about Joe's one-round knockout of Max Schmeling. To Joe it was "somethin' of a relief, I guess. Ah don't know. But ah feels better about bein' champeen."

Someone pushed through the crowd and announced, "Schmeling says that punch to the body was low."

Joe's eyes widened a little. "At wasn't no low punch. It was a good one, though. 'At started him going. But ah finished him with that right to the face. Naw, it wasn't exocety like the one I knocked Braddock out with, but sorta like it."

"Naw, he didn't hurt me none. Guess he hit me with more than one punch but the only one I remember is the one he got me with goin' away from the ropes. I was movin' out and it didn't hurt none."

"Someone asked if he would fight Schmeling again."

"What to?" asked Joe. "Didn't I just beat him?"

There was silence and dismay in Schmeling's quarters. A broken man, the German said only, "He haf beat me, but I will fight him again."

Before him stretched the bitter oblivion that the lot of every beaten man. His tremendous pride in his ability as a fighter dealt its cruellest blow. Schmeling had to say and one more phrase, "I will be back."

QUALIFIERS SET FOR MATCHES IN STATE AMATEUR

32 Golfers Start Quest For Title Held By McCarthy

By FRITZ HOWELL.
COLUMBUS, June 23.—Thirty-two of the state's top-notch amateurs started today in quest of Maurice J. McCarthy's title in the 35th annual Ohio golf championship match play, but the Cincinnati Irishman was a heavy favorite to repeat the victory he won a year ago at Canton Brookside.

Bob Servis of Dayton, four-time medalist and two-time champion, led the field of 132 aspirants through the two-day, 36-hole qualifying round, tacking together a par-crashing 70 and a 77 for a 147, nosing out Toledo's Tony Ruddy by a single stroke.

Two rounds of matches were scheduled today, reducing the field to eight by tonight. Two more are on the books for Friday, clearing the way for the Saturday 36-hole match between the finalists. The experts have it that Servis and McCarthy will meet in the finals, just as they have twice previously. In their former meetings McCarthy beat Servis 10 and 8 at Cleveland in 1934, and two years later Servis won, one up in 40 holes, at Toledo.

McCarthy did not play in the qualifier, being awarded the No. 1 match play berth because of his title. Here are the first round pairings, with the qualifying scores of the contestants:

Maurice McCarthy, Cincinnati, vs. Mike Goodman, Columbus (155); Fred Hussey, Dayton (153), vs. Tom Bouck, Akron (156); Walter May, Massillon (149), vs. John Finn, Cincinnati (156); John Finn, Columbus (154), vs. Dick Lutz, Ashland (157); Tony Ruddy, Toledo (148), vs. Sam Barsch, Columbus (156); Glen Bishop, Toledo (153), vs. Russell Drummond, Chillicothe (157); Barney Hunt, Columbus (152), vs. James Lewis, Toledo (156); Frank Stranahan, Toledo (154), vs. Allen Rankin, Columbus (157); Bob Servis, Dayton (147), vs. John Roberts, Columbus (155); Bob Stranahan, Toledo (153), vs. Bob Randolph, Dayton (157); Paul Tuga, Columbus (151), vs. Carol Short, Akron (157); Hamilton Hedges, Columbus (154), vs. Gene Durrant, Columbus (157); Dan Carmichael, Columbus (149), vs. Bill McCabe, Middletown (156); Bob Castor, Ashland (154), vs. W. Loveberry, Columbus (157); William Gilbert, Columbus (152), vs. Jack Wood, Cincinnati (156); William Clensy, Cincinnati (154), vs. Charles Carl, Columbus (158).

Cleary, 1935 state public links champion, won the driving contest by averaging 307 yards on three blows.

Scores of those who failed to qualify included:

X-Ray Examination Reveals Extent of Schmeling Injury

NEW YORK, June 23.—An X-ray examination today showed that Max Schmeling, knocked out by Joe Louis in their heavyweight championship fight last night, had a fracture of the transverse process.

Report On Mission Activities Given At Synod Session

WOOSTER, June 23.—The Presbyterian board of foreign missions is beginning its second century of service by sending out special deputations to the foreign fields to determine how missions can best spread an unchanging gospel in a changing world. Dr. J. L. Dodds, secretary of the board of foreign missions, told the Presbyterian Synod of Ohio in session here.

Dr. Dodds was the speaker on the report to the synod of the board of foreign missions made by Dr. Harry W. Barr, of Urbana. Rev. C. B. Cameron of the American Bible Society, declared that his organization printed 7,000,000 Bibles last year in 1,000 languages and dialects.

Rev. E. S. Hendrickson, of Rittman, was elected to fill the unexpired term as permanent clerk of the synod to replace Rev. C. L. Plymote, of Dayton, who resigned.

Rev. Frank M. Patterson, of Plain City, the other permanent clerk was forced to return home when he sustained a broken arm in a fall.

The synod closes its 56th annual meeting today with the report of the board of Christian education which will include the report of President Charles F. Wishart, of the College of Wooster, synod's own educational institution.

Little Publicity On Duke's Birthday

LONDON, June 23.—This was the Duke of Windsor's 44th birthday, but hardly anyone in England noticed.

There were seven words in one newspaper's society column devoted to the former king, but even there, he shared honors with Prince Jaime, second son of former King Alfonso of Spain, who was 30 today.

Here and There About Town

Another "One-Round" Battle

Two Salem men were arrested last night in an aftermath to the Louis-Schmeling bout.

Cyrus Heslep and Jesse Atkinson are alleged to have used their fists at a W. State st. beer parlor when an argument started following the radio broadcast of the heavyweight encounter. Fists flew fast and soon the police stopped the fight. This battle also ended in the first round.

Charged with disorderly conduct, Heslep was fined $10 and costs and Atkinson $5 and costs. The men ordinarily are good friends and work side by side at the National Sanitary plant, police said.

Stopped at the Right Place

Unable to navigate any farther, a drunk tottered beside the fire station doors at the city hall last night.

Slowly, and almost as though he were staging a slow motion performance, the man sank to the sidewalk. He curled in a corner, apparently deciding to sleep it off.

He picked the right spot, too, for police stumbled upon him shortly afterwards.

NEGROES EXTOL LOUIS VICTORY

People of Champ's Race Stage Celebrations In Many Cities

(By Associated Press)

With noisy enthusiasm that in some places broke the bounds of police restraint, Negroes in the nation's cities celebrated Joe Louis' prize ring victory over Max Schmeling.

The knockout came so suddenly that it disrupted plans for organized celebrations, and a wild bedlam of parades, dances, hilarity and individual hi-de-ho resulted.

In Cleveland a 15-year-old Negro boy was wounded last night by a police bullet and scores, including the officer who fired the shot, were injured in a melee.

House Considers Patrol Pay Boost

COLUMBUS, June 23.—Gov. Martin L. Davey's proposal to increase the state highway patrol from 200 to 300 men and boost their salaries was before the house of representatives today.

A bill introduced late yesterday also would authorize 35 radio operators instead of the present 30.

Compensation of patrolmen and officers would be raised $5 a month in each of the next four years.

Patrolmen Now Receive $1,320 a Year while the state allows $540 annually for maintenance, a total of $1,860 which the bill would increase to $1,920 for the first year.

The bill, offered by Rep. Al Kalb (D-Ottawa), includes an appropriation of $49,500 for patrol additions and salary increases.

THEATER Attractions

Madeline Carroll and Henry Fonda are co-starred in "Blackade"

The most dramatic situation of the present day—the Spanish Civil war—forms the background of a story of the romance of a man and a girl drawn into the conflict against their will. They were lovers but circumstances made them bitter enemies as well.

The picture is one of the time-lapse of the season's films in subject and through the quality of action, portrayal, direction and production becomes a screen drama of exceptional interest.

Film Is Strictly Neutral

The events of the story lose none of their exciting qualities through the fact that the production preserves a strictly neutral attitude and does not identify any character as a member of one faction or another.

Miss Carroll meets and falls in love with Fonda, a young Spanish farmer, when she arrives in Spain to join her father, who is secretly engaged in fomenting a civil war in the country which Fonda loves.

Fonda is drawn into the war as a patriot and in the course of events, kills a spy whom he later finds out is Miss Carroll's father.

The father's death places them on opposite sides until the plight of the starving, homeless and helpless countrypeople make them realize their own insignificance. They confess their love for each other as they face death at the hands of enraged soldiers who are waiting to execute them both as spies.

The mystery film, "Mr. Moto Takes a Chance," featuring Peter Lorre, Rochelle Hudson, Robert Kent and J. Edward Bromberg concludes tonight at the State.
